

Zhuravlev A.V., Zimina N.V.

Managing the Steel Flow in a Crystallizer of a Bloom Continuous Casting Machine

Abstract: The quality requirements to the metallurgical products are becoming more strict every year. This is especially true for tubular billets. Continuous casting is the final stage, where the liquid steel properties can be managed. The article investigates the issue of managing the steel flow supplied to a crystallizer to improve the continuous ingot properties